The Taking of the Census. The enumerators are now in the midst of their duties. Whether these are to be easy or difficult will very much depend upon the reatiness and intelligence with which their inquiries are an-

It has been determined by the Census Sures not to press those interrogations responses to which would disclose conditions of the mind and which would disclose conditions of the mind and body which are guarded among the sacred se-crecies of family life. Nor will any lady who objects be required to state her age. These controverted points disposed of the chief duly remaining is to ascertain the population and industrial statistics of the country, and this cannot be done with thoroughness and dispatch upless the enumerators have the hearty co-ope-cation of the public. We shall help corrections unless the enumerators have the control of the public. We shall help ourselves by helping them. We will not have our proper place among cities and States if our people show any contempt or indifference on this subject. Our duty to the Government and to ourselves demands that the census-takers should receive earnest attention, and that householders be at ome pains to supply all the information that will be called for.

In this section of Virginia it happens that the head of the household is not always accurately posted as to who have homes upon his premises. It has often been the case at registration that persons were registered from houses where they persons were registered from houses where they were not generally known to live, and, in many instances, where investigations were made, it was found that the voter had really acquired the legal residence he claimed without the knowlegal residence he claimed without the state of the promises. This class of our population should not be omitted now. To get their names will be difficult, sometimes impossible, but the good that can certainly be accomplished makes the effort worth trying. Let us be diligent in assisting the enumeraork to do, and will have but meagre compen sation, and the more assistance they receive the better able they will be to compass their fields of labor and do exact and complete justice to

All over the country guesses are being made and published in advance of the population that this, that, and the other city will have when the official results are ascertained and pro-claimed. We feel like publishing some from our kichmond seers; but for our own part have egiculated (upon the basis of the number of men over the age of twenty-one years found and asseesed for the payment of the poll-tax) that Richmond (not including Manchester) will have 87,000 souls. We expect the enumeration to give us these figures, perhaps larger ones. Richnd and Manchester will have nearly 100,000 and their suburbs about 10,000 more. All that it is necessary to do to attain these re-suits is to get a correct enumeration, which the governmental appointees will be only too glad to bitterness for party purposes are as impotent as they are disgraceful. The Ohio State Journal has at times since the war tried to be fair-minded on questions raised against the South. But its partisan spirit in the desire to regain the its partisan spirit in the desire to regain the ground lost in the last gubernatorial contest has been too much for its houest and caim judgment. In the recent peaceful celebration in this city of the unveiling of the statue of the hero LEE this journal presents to see southern disloyalty to journal precent of those who sided with the Union. By disingenuous charges it would try to fire the hearts of those who sided with the Sorth in the civil war and bring back to the support of the Republican party the men who have port of the Republican party the men who have lired of its years of false promises. It is a disgrace to the journalistic profession and to common decency that a writer could be found who for partisan purposes would so far forget the Ninth Commandment as to write the following, which appeared in the editorial col-umns of the above-mentioned journal of the 31st umas of the above-mentioned journal of the Sist ultimo:

Disguise it as you will, the recent proceedings at Richmond at the unreiling of Lea's statue were a distinct intimation to the people of the United States that a large body of citizens in the South regret the failure of the slave Confederacy and only submit to the national Government because they must.

The great tolerant heart of the nation permits these citizens to de what no other nation under Heaven would permit—namely, toopenly glorify treason and apotheosize rebellion. We would not have the permission withdrawn, because although such proceedings as those at Richmond are educating new generations to hate the flag and institutions of their country and to reverence and respect all that is disgraceful and wrong in the country's history levertheless they serve the important purpose of keeping always wide open the eyes of the loyal people of the land and rendering them alort and ready for every emergency. Such proceedings tell us in unmistakable language that the spirit of treason will lives and flourishes, and that the same men whe fired upon the flag at Sumier twenty-nine years age would, if they dared, tear that flag from the dome of the national capitol to-days. We tolerate the open manifestations of this treasonable spirit partly because of the same generating of the nation with its enemies; partly because of the conscious strength that enables us to lid those enemies defance—we believe the watch to relax.

It is gratuitour and easy to make charges and counter-charges hypothetical in their nature, or

It is gratuitous and easy to make charges and counter-charges hypothetics in their nature, or to resort to sharp invective and billingsgate. But we will venture the surulse that the writer of the above never smell gunpowder in "the late ess," and if he did it was in a bombunpleasanteess, and it was volition. We would furthermore on the question of loyalty confidently venture the prediction that should a company venture the prediction that should a company venture the prediction that should a company venture the prediction that should be company to the prediction of t furthermore on the question of loyalty conddentity venture the prediction that should a common enemy threaten the peace of this nation (and God forbid it should), the patriotic southerners who would gladly rush to our country's defence would have to look backward for the man who new talks of tolerating but having to "watch them."

Alabama's Next Governor-Ocionel Thomas G. Johns. the Democratic membres for the governorship of Alabama, is described as a brainy young man of forty-six. He served on Goboen's staff in Virginia during the war and made a reputation for bravery and dash. After the war he made his way rapidly to the head of the bar of Montgomery. His ability, public spirit and conservatism have been thoroughly tested to public places. He has been found a man fully "to count on "in every other gener. The Montgomery Advertiser says:

The Episcopal Church Convention of Ohio The Episcopal Church Convention of Canagared, it appears, despite strong opposition, to allow women a voice in Church affairs and to hold office as vestrymen and so on. It seems to us St. Parn. says something to the effect that the members of the fair sex should keep stience in the churches, but it does not sound altogether inappropriate that women should and around the plates.

The press generally speaks of Colonel Asches ANDERSON'S oration as commensurate with the subject and with the popular demonstration. This is praise indeed.

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after cating, sick headache, hearthurn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Barsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsis. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did cat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after cating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an I nemse amount of good. It gave me an appe., b, and my food relished and satisfied the craving. I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. Page, Watertown, Mass, N. B. Be sure to get only
